1. Service Description

This arrangement enables SaskTel to redirect a specific business Customer's voice-traffic telephone numbers from the Customer's primary business location to a predetermined alternate business location in the event of an emergency and only upon the Customer's request at the time of an emergency. This subscription service is only available between two previously specified Customer business locations as agreed upon by the Customer and SaskTel.

2. Definition

For the purpose of this Tariff Item "emergency" refers typically to an uncontrollable situation arising at the Customer's primary business location.

3. Conditions of Service

1. Emergency Voice Local Network Access Redirection service will only be offered where suitable equipment, facilities and network capacity are available.
2. If the predetermined alternate business location is beyond the Customer's exchange boundary, applicable long distance charges will apply when calls are redirected to the alternate location.
3. The tariff provisions prevail to the extent of any inconsistency between the tariff and the provisions of any written or unwritten agreement or arrangement with the Customer.
4. This service does not include the local access facilities at either of the Customer's two specified business locations. If these facilities are not in place, they may be available from SaskTel at current tariff rates and charges. Access facilities must be in place at the predetermined alternate business location before Emergency Voice Local Network Access Redirection service can be invoked.

5. The Customer agrees to a minimum of 40 telephone numbers to be subscribed to this service and identified for redirection. Redirection of telephone numbers by the service will only be performed with respect to the entire sequence of previously selected numbers in the Customer group. There are no set limitations regarding the number of access lines at the second business location they are to be redirected to.
6. The Customer is responsible for contacting SaskTel to invoke and reset this service when the emergency situation has been resolved at the Customer's business location.
7. The initial service period is 36 months. A termination charge equal to 50% of the remaining monthly rental to be paid will be charged for termination of the service, or some portion of the service, prior to the completion of the initial service period. Any change to the service for reasons of business change, such as destination of redirection, company name change, etc. will not be charged termination providing the service remains intact. Modification charges will apply for the above noted changes.
8. After the initial service period is completed, the service will continue on a month to month basis.
9. Emergency Voice Local Network Access Redirection service is available for this Customer's telephone numbers associated with Megalink and Direct Inward Dialing Accesses.
10. SaskTel does not make any representation or warranty that Emergency Voice Local Network Access Redirection service will be available at all times to the alternate business location specified by the Customer.

11. In the event of a technology change at the SaskTel switch where the primary numbers are connected to that renders this service is no longer functional as initially designed, SaskTel will review the service and endeavour to develop a comparable service for the Customer, if so desired. The service characteristics and rates of the comparable service may not be equivalent to those included in this tariff, and all developmental costs of the comparable service will be incurred by the Customer. In the event the Customer purchases the comparable service offered by SaskTel, or in the event the Customer elects not to purchase the comparable service and wishes to terminate the existing service instead, SaskTel will waive the termination charges for the existing service that would otherwise apply pursuant to paragraph 7 above. The comparable service may be subject to Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) approval prior to SaskTel offering the service to the Customer.
12. The service provides for a maximum of 2 tests of the physical redirection capability per year on dates and at times as agreed upon by the Customer and SaskTel. The Customer agrees that testing may also be initiated up to two times per year by SaskTel for maintenance purposes.
13. The Customer will advise SaskTel of the Customer official(s) responsible for authorizing SaskTel to invoke or reset the Emergency Voice Local Network Access Redirection service or to make any telephone number changes or modifications to the service and will follow SaskTel's standard procedures for making such requests.
14. SaskTel will not be held liable in any manner or upon any basis to either the Customer or the owner or occupant of the Customer's alternate business location where the Customer's telecommunication traffic is redirected by the service, for any traffic disruptions or congestion caused by the service, including without limitation, instances where such redirection causes capacity volume issues to the network, system or telephone services.
